

4 WAYS HEARING AIDS IMPROVE COMMUNICATION IN RELATIONSHIPS

BETTER COMMUNICATION

Hearing aids can open up a world of communication again; gone are the “what’s” or “can you repeat that?”. Instead, you’ll be able to discuss emotions, ideals, and future plans.

FEWER ARGUMENTS

Most couples will admit that it’s often the small, petty things that can cause an argument. The restoration of hearing that comes with wearing hearing aids can make petty arguments a thing of the past.

BE MORE SOCIAL

The embarrassment of finding it hard to hear can often push a person to isolate themselves. Hearing aids can help to filter out background noises to enhance the overall listening experience.

RESTORE YOUR INDEPENDENCE

Hearing loss can cause one partner to rely on the other to be their translator. This can cause problems in a relationship, but also result in a loss of independence. Hearing aids remove that burden and restore your independence

If you recognize that your hearing is impacting your relationship with others, don’t delay seeking treatment. Over 90% of Americans with hearing loss can be treated with hearing aids.
